

Spotlight on the Tigers Class

We've had a busy few weeks in the Tigers!

In English we are writing a diary entry and have been looking for the features of the genre. We have still been reading How to Train Your Dragon and will be pretending to be Hiccup and writing about his experiences. Earlier this week we took part in a webinar with an author and got to hear some of his new book and had a go at creating some character illustrations too.

We have been mastering column addition and subtraction in maths and working extra hard on exchanging and borrowing. We have also learned how to estimate answers and as ever are working hard on quick recall of maths facts and times tables.

In Science, we have finished our electricity topic and have moved onto learning about animals and their habitats. We have learned about different biomes where animals can live and the microhabitats within them.

We finished our learning about the Vikings with a brilliant trip to Tullie House. We walked all the way there and back and learned so much while we were there. We got to handle artefacts, some real and some replicas and we did loads of dressing up. The children were the most fantastic ambassadors for the school and a member of the public commented on the beautiful behaviour.

Gymnastics is great fun at the minute and we are using apparatus to create balances and routines. We have worked hard to point our toes and keep our balances strong and still.

In art we have been learning about symbolism and looking at the work of Redon. We used his charcoal image of 'The Crying Spider' as inspiration and created our own work in his style. We drew portraits and from observation and even got to go bug collecting!
